Something to keep in mind!
These bandages are for Teddy's boo-boos only.

Every day and every night,
Teddy scratched and scratched with all his might.

He had yellowish skin, yellowish eyes,
and marks and boo-boos
from his cheeks to his thighs.

Scratch Out the Itch

Teddy has an itch that he can't quite scratch. Help Teddy by scribbling over the letters to make the I-T-C-H go away.

Bandages for Boo-Boos

Teddy itches just like you. Show Teddy where you itch by placing the bandage stickers from page 2 of this book on his fur.

He had an itch on his ear,
 an itch on his nose,
 an itch on his knee,
 an itch on his toes.

All Teddy did was scratch with one paw, then the other, but all Teddy wanted to do was play with his brother.

Teach Teddy

Dynamic Duo

Teddy loves to play his favorite game, "Itch Scratch Toe," with his brother. Find a friend to play with, just like Teddy. Here's how: Choose either "X" or "O." The first player to get 3 of their marks in a row (up, down, across, or diagonally) is the winner.

Mommy and Daddy did their best to make Teddy feel better.
They even tried a few things that were very, very clever.

The first thing Mommy did was clip Teddy's nails.
This helped stop more ouchies, cries, and wails.

Spot the Difference

Something's just not right between these 2 pictures. Can you spot the differences compared to the photo on the right?
(Circle all 10.)

Then Daddy put mittens on Teddy's tiny paws.
This helped Teddy stop scratching by hiding his claws.

They wanted to do more to help stop the itch,
so Mommy rubbed cream on Teddy from stitch to stitch.

These little tricks helped, but just couldn't fix it all.
Teddy still felt sick, so they gave his doctor a call.

The doctor checked Teddy's eyes and looked at his skin.
Then she listened to his heart and saw his pointed chin.

"I'm here to help Teddy feel better,"
the doctor quickly said.

"Let's do a few tests,
then we can look ahead."

Tool Time

Your doctor has many special tools to examine your body, but it seems they're lost within her bag. Can you help find and color the tools your doctor may use during your checkup?

Teddy went for his tests,
and then waited at home,
until the doctor called and said,
"Teddy has Alagille syndrome."

"Known as ALGS, it's a rare disease of the liver, heart, and more, and doctors and scientists are working very hard to find a cure."

ALAGILLE SYNDROME

Spell It Out

Alagille syndrome can be hard to write, so Teddy prefers ALGS for short.
Trace over the letters to learn how to write ALGS, just like Teddy.

Color Confusion

Teddy and his doctor need your help. Color each test tube with the correct color to complete the picture.

Teddy's doctor then talked about what she could and would do, "Itch medicine, special nutrition... I'm on this journey with you."

Teddy still sees his doctor with his family by his side. He's truly an Alagille syndrome warrior, and his doctor is his guide.

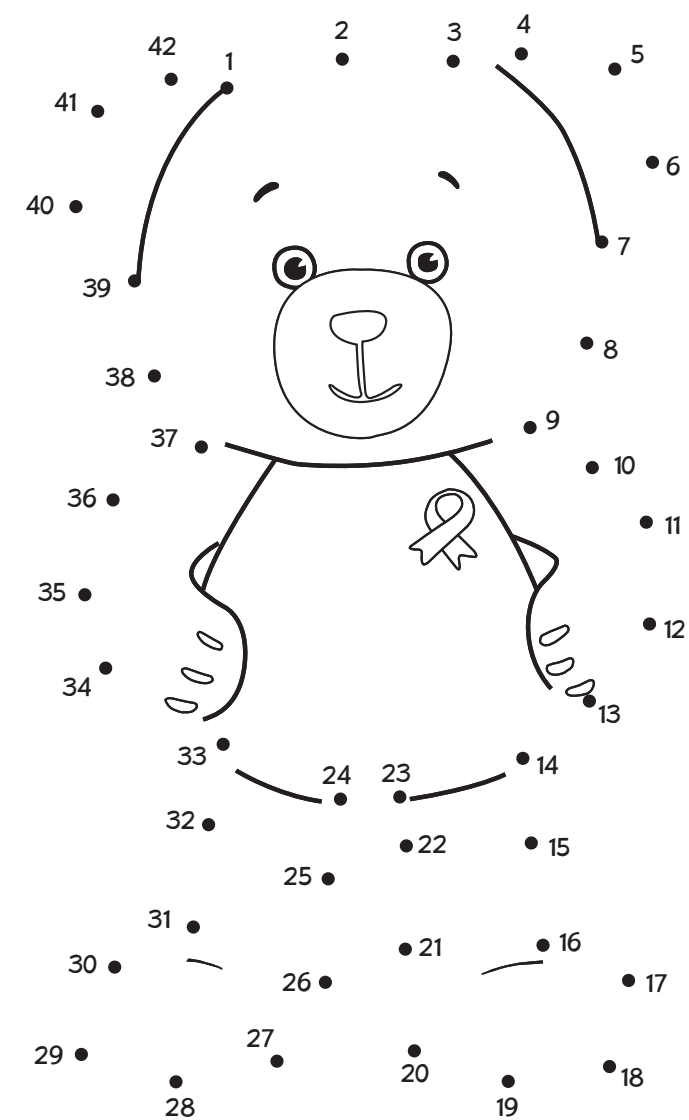

Better Together

Reunite Teddy with his family by helping him and his doctor find the right path through the maze.

A Teddy Masterpiece

Now it's your turn to draw Teddy! Choose your favorite color and connect the dots in order, starting at number 1.
